Maple Class News

The children in Maple Class have had a busy 2 weeks since half term.

They have been finding out about what life was like for Victorian working children and about the work of Lord Shaftesbury.

They may be able to tell you what a philanthropist is! We realised that people have different opinions about whether children should work and then we shared our own opinions.

On 11th November they learnt about Remembrance Day, joined with the other classes and some villagers with two minutes silence when the church bell chimed eleven and completed some related craft activities.

Friday 13th November was 'Children in Need' and the children wore non uniform and learnt how to draw Pudsey bear.

This week is Anti bullying Week so we all came to school in odd socks to celebrate the fact that we are all different and all unique
